SURV[®] Achieves DCAM Eligibility - State of Massachusetts

Wilmington, MA — March 17, 2008 — Surveillance Specialties, Ltd. (SURV[®]), the leading security systems integrator in New England, has recently achieved a certificate of eligibility, issued by the Division of Capital Asset Management and Maintenance (DCAM) within the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

The DCAM certification issuance attests that SURV has successfully fulfilled the requirement of implementing numerous security projects of both substantial size and scope. Eligibility for DCAM is determined by successfully completing the evaluation process as solely defined by the state of Massachusetts' Division of Capital Asset Management and Maintenance. DCAM eligibility is a requisite for all vendors and contractors that are providing services on a Massachusetts public building construction project that requires DCAM certification.

"SURV is pleased to have become DCAM eligible as it affords us the opportunity to provide our brand of superior service and security expertise that was carefully honed in the private sector and extend it to the public sector," states Justin Davis, Chief Operating Officer of SURV.
